FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF WEST VIRGINIA

HUNTINGTON DIVISION

DANIEL LEE HALL, SR.,

Movant,

v.

Case No.: 3:12-cv-01039
(Criminal Case No.: 3:09-cr-00187)

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

Respondent.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER

Pending before the Court is the United States' Motion for an Order Directing Movant to File a Privilege Waiver and an Order Directing Movant's Former Counsel to Provide Information to the United States Concerning Movant's Claim of Ineffective Assistance of Counsel and an Abeyance (Docket No. 75). For the reasons that follow, the Court GRANTS the Motion to the extent stated herein.

I. OPINION

In May 2010, Movant entered a guilty plea to one count of mailing threatening communications in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 876(c). (ECF Nos. 37, 51). He was sentenced to 36 months of imprisonment to run consecutively to an undischarged state sentence that Movant was currently serving, as well as three years of supervised release and a $100 assessment. (ECF No. 51). Movant appealed his sentence to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit; the Fourth Circuit dismissed the appeal on March 15, 2011. (ECF No. 63). Accordingly, Movant filed a Motion to Vacate, Set Aside, or Correct Sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2255, (ECF No. 68). In the motion, Movant alleges, inter alia, that he received ineffective assistance of counsel when his lawyer, Mr. Edward Weis (“Weis”) allowed Movant to enter a guilty plea while he was on “mind-altering” drugs; misadvised Movant about the severity of his potential sentence; and misadvised Movant about his right to file an appeal. (ECF No. 68). Moreover, Movant describes several written and oral conversations between him and Weis. Consequently, the United States filed the instant motion requesting the Court to direct Movant to file a waiver of the attorney-client privilege that governed his communications with Weis.

When considering the United States’ motion, the Court takes into account the professional and ethical responsibilities of Movant’s attorney, as well as the obligation of the Court to ensure a fair, orderly, and efficient judicial proceeding. Without doubt, Weis has a basic duty under any jurisdiction’s standards of professional conduct to protect Movant’s attorney-client privilege. Rule 83.7 of the Local Rules of this District provides that:

In all appearances, actions and proceedings within the jurisdiction of this court, attorneys shall conduct themselves in accordance with the Rules of Professional Conduct and the Standards of Professional Conduct promulgated and adopted by the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia, and the Model Rules of Professional Conduct published by the American Bar Association.

Both the Rules of Professional Conduct promulgated by the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia and the American Bar Association’s (“ABA”) Model Rules of Professional Conduct address the confidentiality of information shared between an attorney and his or her client. See West Virginia Rules of Professional Conduct 1.6 and 1.9(b); Model Rules 1.6 and 1.9(c). These rules substantially limit the circumstances under which an attorney may reveal privileged communications without an express and informed waiver of the privilege by the client.

Moreover, on July 14, 2010, the ABA's Committee on Ethics and Professional Responsibility issued Formal Opinion 10-456, entitled "Disclosure of Information to Prosecutor When Lawyer's Former Client Brings Ineffective Assistance of Counsel Claim." Although this opinion is not binding on the court, see, e.g., Jones v. United States, 2012 WL 484663 *2 (E.D.Mo. Feb. 14, 2102); Employer's Reinsurance Corp. v. Clarendon Nat. Ins. Co., 213 F.R.D. 422, 430 (D. Kan 2003), it provides a reasoned discussion of the competing interests that arise in the context of an ineffective assistance of counsel claim and their impact on the continued confidentiality of attorney-client communications. In summary, the ABA acknowledges in the opinion that "an ineffective assistance of counsel claim ordinarily waives the attorney-client privilege with regard to some otherwise privileged information," but cautions that this waiver does not operate to fully release an attorney from his or her obligation to keep client information confidential unless the client gives informed consent for disclosure or disclosure is sanctioned by an exception contained in Model Rule 1.6. After examining the various exceptions contained in Model Rule 1.6, the ABA concludes that disclosure may be justified in certain circumstances; however, any such disclosure should be limited to that which the attorney believes is reasonably necessary and should be confined to "court-supervised" proceedings, rather than ex parte meetings with the non-client party.

Upon examining the provisions of West Virginia's Rule of Professional Conduct 1.6, the undersigned notes that 1.6(b)(2) permits a lawyer to "reveal such information [relating to the representation of a client] to the extent the lawyer reasonably believes necessary ... to respond to allegations in any proceeding concerning the lawyer's representation of a client." In the Comment that follows the Rule, the Supreme Court of Appeals instructs the lawyer to "make every effort practicable to avoid unnecessary disclosure of information relating to a representation, to limit disclosure to those having the need to know it, and to obtain protective orders or make other arrangements minimizing the risk of disclosure.” Ultimately, however, a lawyer must comply with orders of a court of competent jurisdiction, which require the lawyer to disclose information about the client. Similarly, Model Rule 1.6(b)(5) authorizes an attorney to reveal information regarding the representation of a client to the extent the lawyer reasonably believes necessary “to respond to allegations in any proceeding concerning the lawyer’s representation of the client.” Furthermore, Model Rule 1.6(b)(6) explicitly states that the lawyer may disclose such information “to comply with other law or a court order.” In view of these provisions, the Court finds that Weis may, without violating the applicable Rules of Professional Conduct, disclose information in this proceeding regarding his communications with Movant to the extent reasonably necessary to comply with an order of this Court or to respond to the allegations of ineffective representation.

Having addressed the professional responsibilities of Weis, the Court turns to its authority and obligations. As previously noted, federal courts have long held that when a “habeas petitioner raises a claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, he waives the attorney-client privilege as to all communications with his allegedly ineffective lawyer.” Bittaker v. Woodford, 331 F.3d 715, 716 (9th Cir. 2003).<sup>1</sup> Subsequent to the opinion in Bittaker, Rule 502 of the Federal Rules of Evidence was enacted to explicitly deal with the effect and extent of a waiver of the attorney-client privilege in a Federal proceeding.

United States*, 504 F.2d 332 (8th Cir. 1974); Dunlap v. United States, 2011 WL 2693915 (D.S.C.); Mitchell v. United States, 2011 WL 338800 (W.D. Wash).

Rule 502(a)<sup>2</sup> provides in relevant part:

When the disclosure is made in a Federal proceeding or to a Federal office or agency and waives the attorney-client privilege or work-product protection, the waiver extends to an undisclosed communication or information in a Federal or State proceeding only if: (1) the waiver is intentional; (2) the disclosed and undisclosed communications or information concern the same subject matter; and (3) they ought in fairness to be considered together.

Here, Movant intentionally waived the attorney-client privilege that attached to his communications with Weis regarding the issues raised in the § 2255 motion by setting out the substance of those communications in the motion. Accordingly, in regard to the particular discussion(s) and correspondence referenced by Movant, a subject matter waiver of the privilege attendant to those particular communications should be permitted in fairness to the United States.

Nonetheless, the Court retains authority to issue a protective order governing production of the privileged information, including the method by which the currently undisclosed communications will be disclosed. See Rule 12, Rules Governing § 2255 Proceedings; FRCP 26(c); and FRE 503(d); See also United States v. Nicholson, 611 F.3d 191, 217 (4th Cir. 2010). Rule 7 of the Rules Governing Section 2255 Proceedings expressly authorizes the use of affidavits as part of the record. In order to determine whether an evidentiary hearing is necessary, an affidavit submitted by Weis would be useful to the Court. Moreover, an affidavit and any supporting documents should supply the basic information required by the United States to allow it to respond to Movant's §

<sup>2</sup> The Federal Rules of Evidence are applicable in a § 2255 proceeding "to the extent that matters of evidence are not provided for in the statutes which govern procedure therein or in other rules prescribed by the Supreme Court pursuant to statutory authority." Page*, 2000 WL 535960 (7th Cir.); Ramirez v. United States, 1997 WL 538817 (S.D.N.Y.). The statutes and rules governing § 2255 actions do not address the assertion or waiver of the attorney-client privilege.

II. ORDER

Therefore, for the forgoing reasons, the Court ORDERS Movant's trial counsel, Mr. Edward Weis, to file within thirty (30) days from the date of this Order an affidavit responding only to Movant's specific claims of ineffective assistance of counsel. The affidavit shall include all of the information Weis believes is necessary to fully respond to the claims and shall include as attachments copies of any documents from his file specifically addressing the matters raised by Movant in his motion. To the extent that these documents address other aspects of Weis's representation of Movant, Weis may redact them. In preparing the affidavit and attachments, counsel should disclose only that information reasonably necessary to ensure the fairness of these proceedings.

In addition, the undersigned finds that specific court-imposed limitations on the use of the privileged information are necessary to protect Movant's future interests. As noted by the Fourth Circuit in United States v. Nicholson, supra at 217, citing Bittaker v. Woodford, supra at 722-723 (9th Cir. 2003), a protective order prohibiting the subsequent and unfettered use of privileged information disclosed in a § 2255 proceeding is entirely justified, because otherwise the movant would be forced to make a painful choice between "asserting his ineffective assistance claim and risking a trial where the prosecution can use against him every statement he made to his first lawyer" or "retaining the privilege but giving up his ineffective assistance claim." Accordingly, the Court further ORDERS that the attorney-client privilege, which attaches to the communications between Movant and Weis, shall not be deemed automatically waived in any other Federal or State proceeding by virtue of the above-ordered disclosure in this § 2255 proceeding. The affidavit and documents supplied by Weis shall be limited to use in this proceeding, and Respondent is prohibited from otherwise using the privileged information disclosed by Weis without further order of a court of competent jurisdiction or a written waiver by Movant.

The Court GRANTS the United States' motion for an abeyance. Upon receipt of the affidavit and supporting documentation, if any, the undersigned will review the matter to determine whether an evidentiary hearing is necessary. Upon completion of the review, the undersigned will issue an appropriate scheduling order.

The Clerk is instructed to provide a copy of this Order to Movant, counsel of record, and Mr. Edward Weis.

ENTERED: September 4, 2012.
